PAMI hosting information sessions for manufacturers

HUMBOLDT, SK – The Prairie Agricultural Machinery Institute (PAMI) is hosting free information presentations and discussions on Product Development Cycles for Manufacturers at the 2014 Crop Production Show in Saskatoon next week.

On January 13, Les Hill, Troy Lucyshyn, Nathan Gregg, Larry Jorgenson, and Derek Rude of PAMI will be at the show to share their knowledge gained over 105 combined years of product development. Their presentation and discussion will cover product development cycles, best practices, and current and future trends.

The presentations are open to all personnel involved in engineering, manufacturing, sales, marketing, and management, with a focus on small- to medium-sized manufacturers.

Date: January 13, 2014 (There is free admission to the Crop Production Show on this date)

Time: Two session times available: 3:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Only 60 seats are available per session. Those interested in attending can claim their free ticket by registering using one of the following links.
